ATTENTION WELL OWNERS

Ground water is one of our most valuable resources, and you, the well owner, have a personal responsibility in helping to preserve these resources so that they will still be available for future generations. Your most important duty in this regard is the keeping of accurate records of changes in water levels, quantities of water pumped, and all other changes in the characteristics of our ground-water resources. It is chiefly through your observations that we know what is happening and are able to prevent depletion or contamination of our ground-water supplies.

The measurement of water levels in wells is the only way we can tell if the ground-water resources of an area are being depleted. For that reason, water level measurements given in your annual reports should be as accurate as possible.

We will be glad to supply you with any information we have in regard to methods of measuring water levels, or in measuring quantities of water pumped. Your cooperation in making the annual well report a document of value will be greatly appreciated.

Dear Sir and Madam:

A completed and perfected water right as evidenced by the certificate recorded at Volume 22, page 30147, State Record of Water Rights Certificates, is appurtenant to the lands upon which the right was established and travels with the land through change of ownership. There is no provision for recording the change of ownership of such a right in the records of this office.

I believe the correspondence referred to in your letter of October 22 refers to the incomplete right granted by water right permit No. G-275.

Once the right was completed and perfected as evidenced by the certificate, it became appurtenant to the property.

Very truly yours,

Dear Mr. Springer:

This will acknowledge receipt of notices of completion of construction and complete application of water in connection with your Permit No. G-275. On these notices you have indicated the completion of construction date as being July 15, 1958, and complete application of water as being finished on October 1, 1958.

On October 28, 1957, you submitted the annual well report which was misfiled and just now located. On the well report you requested an extension of the time limits for completion of construction from October 1, 1957, to October 1, 1958. To obtain such an extension requires formal application using the form which is enclosed. Even though the project has now been completed you should immediately make formal application for extension of the time limits to maintain the permit in good standing.

In reference to the other question on the well report, the permit includes 7.4 acres which would include the 2 acres west of the road marked, "lands under lease" as well as the 5.4 acres on the east side of the road.

Please accept my apologies for the error which caused the delay in sending this information to you.
