BILL'S SPRING

Bill's Spring flows approximately 8 gallons per minute. It provides water for domestic use for one family, stockwater for approximately 50 head of beef cattle and irrigation water for 1.0 acre.

A vertical 24 inch concrete culvert with drain rock gathers the water at the source. It is delivered via a 1 1/4" x 2600' gravity poly pipeline to a 7,150 gallon concrete holding tank, through an elevation range of 270 feet. A 1 1/2" x 2000' poly gravity pipeline delivers water to the house, one stocktank, and irrigated area through an elevation range of 143 feet.

Dear Don,

I am sending you the information you requested regarding our water rights. I can corroborate and easily expand upon these statements if necessary. As the expense of retaining my vested water rights climbs, it appears I will have to spend thousands to maintain my ability to utilize long-standing rights. As you will see, I am including a pair of patents important to my case. They are difficult to read and were indeed hard to find, but they point to 1886 and 1891 as patent dates for most of our lands outside the Tipton-Hughes historical documentation which includes most of the ranch and nearly all the unnamed creeks. I want to make it crystal clear, that except for the East fork of French Creek, the entire system routinely goes dry from late June through September. French Creek is an intermittent stream, and sometimes even the pools dry up! The springs we claim were each the focal point of a claim since water was hard to come by even then. I trust this process will proceed to a speedy conclusion.

Here are some citations from History.

History of Southern Oregon by A. G. Walling, 1884.

"Daniel Welker came to Douglas County in June 1855. He located on land now owned by Wm. Tipton" and remained there until 1864 when he sold to his father-in-law, Meshek Tipton.

Meshek Tipton "came to state in 1853 to Douglas County in 1854" set out buying thousands of acres of land in the Mt. Scott area. His name appears on all the private land deeds now included in French Creek Ranch. All water resources were developed either by Thorp, Shaw, French, Welker, or Tipton, well before 1900. They were engulfed by Tipton who continued to farm and ranch.

In her book "Land of the North Umpqua's," Lavola Bakken also speaks of the Tipton family and its' large ownership of private lands. She recalls that in 1905, Walton Hughes built the Mt. Alto Ranch headquarters, near the Tipton D.L.C. This ranch completely contained French Creek, Bradley Creek, Fordyce and Huntley Creeks. The Tiptons had "patched" these ranches into this huge property in the last half of the nineteenth century. Both the Tiptons and Hughes were very much into water development as all creeks in the area are intermittent in the late summer and fall. So of course, being a huge operation of sheep and cattle, they used the full capacity of springs, streams, and the river. The 13 strand Page Brand woven wire still surrounds the bulk of French Creek Ranch. This wire was stretched up around 1900 and still stands today, showing clearly the ownership of the lands it encircles. Along with all the lower lands being D.L.C.'s leaves no doubt about the validity of our claim. We re sending copies of the original patents on the lands outside this fence. The Daniel's and Copeland Patents are dated from the 1880's and should settle any questions in regards our higher elevation lands.

Lavola Bakken, author of "Lone Rock Free State", a well-documented local history of East Douglas County has a short "bio" on John French.

"Born in Callaway County, Missouri in 1831. Came to Oregon with J. V. Bradley and William Thorp in 1851 via California gold fields; settled D.L.C. on creek which bears his name (now part of French Creek Ranch, operated by William Strader, Glide). SOLD TO TIPTON 1859." (my emphasis)

Tipton continued to buy all available land in the area and had everything from Huntly Creek East to French Creek inside the old Page wire.

In addition, Section 4, 25S, 3W is also in the Bakken book.

"Charley Wright and his family came to Oregon about 1878 and took land near Mt. Scott."

Charley's wife, Amanda, was a niece of Washington Hughes who homesteaded across French Creek, Sec 8, 26S, 3W in 1862.

All these names appear on the abstract or deeded history of this ranch. Anything lying outside the Tipton-Hughes line is Daniels, Copeland, Shaw Thorp, French, Hughes or Wright. All well before 1900.

We feel we are in a very strong position. We will look forward to hearing from you that our claim is sufficient.

Sincerely,

W. D. Strader
