In 1995 in the river gravel's of central Tanzania, a major discovery was made of gem quality Sapphire. Though pieces are small, cutting generally under one carat, the colors are vivid and widely varied in pinks, blues, yellow, red and purple. Mining the gravel was fast and furious. Fortunes were made overnight. Claim jumping and thievery was always prevalent . So much so that the government shut down all the mining until order could be restored. Now the mines are reopened with production in limited quantities but still much vivid high quality.
